

CURRICULUM VITAE

Name: Yae Kanai, M.D, Ph.D.

Education:

1989 M.D., Keio University School of Medicine
1993 Ph.D., Postgraduate School (Pathology Course), Keio University School of Medicine

Brief Chronology of Academic Appointments:

1993 – 1998 Research member, Pathology Division, National Cancer Center Research Institute
2002 – 2010 Chief, Pathology Division, National Cancer Center Research Institute
2010 – 2014 Deputy Director, National Cancer Center Research Institute
Chief, Division of Molecular Pathology, National Cancer Center Research Institute
2014 –2017 Chief, Division of Molecular Pathology and Division of Biobank, National Cancer Center Research Institute
2015 – Professor, Department of Pathology, Keio University School of Medicine
2021 – 2023 Deputy Dean, Keio University School of Medicine

Honors and other Recognition:

Baelz Prize, 2000
Incitement Award of the Japanese Society of Pathology, 2002
Incitement Award of the Japanese Cancer Association, 2003
Tamiya Prize, 2005
The Japanese Cancer Association Women Scientists Award, 2018
The Japanese Society of Pathology; Japan Pathology Award, 2023

Specialty and Research Field of Interest:

Molecular Pathology, Cancer epigenomics, Multiomics analyses